We hear that our famous alumnus, one Calvin Coolidge, by name, is to write a 500-word history of the United States. A rule of the contest is that punctuation marks are not to be counted. To assist this old grad of G. W. in composing his story (the pun is unintentional) and also as an aid to University students who are competing for the History Club's prize for the same feat, we offer the following suggestions:

While the Colonial of the United States was terminated by an against the King of England, arising from the ? of taxation without representation. . . The ravages of the Civil War left the South in a . . . for some years. . . In 1909 Peary made a . . . for the North Pole. . . The Panama Canal between Panama and . . . put the Pacific closer to the Atlantic. . . During the World War there was much agitation against-ated Americans. . . And in 1930 many Americans had their hearts broken by stock . . .

No charge at all, Calvin.

By the papers we note that 44 of the 400 women students of Bucknell University may not have dates nor walk on campus for six months because they admitted that they smoked in their own rooms, contrary to rules. We gather from this that the Pi Phi chapter at Bucknell numbers 356.

Still it is pretty rough on Herb Angel and Harold Jenkins, who will go to Bucknell on April 25 and 26 for a convention if all the best girls may not have dates.

Chivalry is a virtue. A friend of ours visited the City of Brotherly love over the week-end, and while there on a back porch found that a street light glared in the eyes of his date. Angered greatly at this, the gentleman grabbed some stones, and after some few efforts succeeded in hitting the light and extinguishing it.

Dean Riedinger asserts that women learn more from men than they do from women. Wonder if the Dean will sign a statement to that effect so we can take it around to the girl friend?

Hatchet reporter assigned to Panhellenic Council news brings back the comment on the assignment book: "No Panhellenic news that can be printed." Panhel is getting in the class with another organization with which we are familiar.

The first bad thing we've heard about our Glee Club is the fact that they are making a Movietone. If they keep on getting in such disreputable company, no matter how much publicity we give them, they won't amount to much.

Gamma Eta Zeta, the women's professional (if you please) journalistic fraternity, decided to have pledging the other day, and ordered the neophytes to gather in the Chi Omega rooms, of course. Then, the active members of the organization—Gamma Eta Zeta, we mean—being engaged in a prolonged meeting of the Panhellenic Council, failed to show up until two hours later, with true womanly promptness. We understand if things don't go wrong, there will be pledging sometime this week.

G. W. co-eds are too good-looking. We've already received no tickets for double parking just because that motorcycle cop likes to look at someone on our campus, and is forever patrolling the block around school.

Those at the recent debate decided that Oriental philosophy was more conducive to happiness than that of the Occident, with its materialistic doctrines. At times, like these weary midnighters at the printer's, we grow fatalistic, too. We're going right out and buy a stiff glass of milk.

DICK ROLLO.

Episcopalian Meeting Held Last Thursday

Students Asked to Contribute to Lenten Fund For Shanghai Medical School

The George Washington University Episcopal Club held its regular semi-monthly meeting in Corcoran Hall 17 last Thursday night. Virginia Bonfant, president of the club, was in charge of the meeting. Reports were received from the delegates who attended the Tri-Diocesan Conference held recently at St. Marks Church. Judith Wood was appointed chairman of a committee to nominate officers for the club for next year. This committee will report at the next meeting, March 27, when the election will be held.

Episcopal students of the University are asked to contribute to the Lenten Fund, sponsored by the University of Texas, to endow the Shanghai Medical School in Shanghai, China.

CHINESE DEBATE CULTURAL IDEAS WITH LOCAL MEN

Audience Decides That Eastern Viewpoint is More Conducive to Happiness

PRESIDENT MARVIN ACTS AS CHAIRMAN OF CONTEST

Next Debate To Be Held Away From Home at New York University

Lured by various attractions ranging all the way from seeing and hearing a debate between the George Washington and Harvard Chinese Debating teams, to take advantage of a free admission, an audience of over two hundred thronged Corcoran Hall last Saturday night. When the proceedings were ended, most of this audience seemed to agree with the Chinese debaters that their philosophy of life was more conducive to human happiness than the American, despite the valiant efforts of the erstwhile George Washington philosophers to uphold such things as "Pragmatism" and "The full dinner pail."

Peter K. Kiang and Victor K. Wong were the representatives of the Oriental views of happiness, while W. L. Butte and Hearst R. Duncan represented Uncle Sam's ideas on the subject. Dr. Cloyd H. Marvin presiding. After some introductory remarks by President Marvin, Mr. Kiang opened the debate defending the Chinese philosophy as emphasizing the goals of "spiritual realization" and "cultural attainment" in contrast to the American which emphasized only the materialistic side.

Butte Opens Negative
W. L. Butte in opening the George Washington side, admitted the contention of his opponent and proceeded to uphold it, maintaining that a material philosophy was of fundamental importance in the well-being and happiness of any people.

Victor K. Kwong, the second Chinese speaker, held that the Chinese viewpoint did not exclude material well-being, but that it went deeper and broader than that. He stated that the Chinese were good business people, citing the fact that they could "buy from the Jews; sell to the Scotch, and still make a profit!"

Hearst R. Duncan, in concluding the George Washington arguments said that although our philosophy was "a bread-and-butter one, it was likewise practical and workable one."

Rebuttals Amplify Arguments
The rebuttals that followed seemed to emphasize and amplify the major points already mentioned rather than to nullify the antagonistic arguments. A discussion from the floor followed the debate, during which time the ballots were being counted.

The next debate of the season will be on March 21, when the affirmative George Washington team parries wits with the New York University team on the subject of "Disarmament."

This debate will take place at New York University, while a debate on the same subject will be conducted by the negative team on the following day. This debate will be held here and will also be with New York University.

There is also an announcement of a debate to be held by radio with the University of Vermont on March 26. It will be broadcast by the local station, WJSV.

G. W. U. Scientist Will Make Special Trip To Study Plants in Alaska's Wonderland

Dr. Robert F. Griggs Will Return to the Land of the Fourteen-Foot Bullet-Proof Bears, the Mystery Mountains, and the Marvelous Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes

By A. W. SMALL.

The story of Dr. Robert F. Griggs' travels in Alaska this summer will be as fantastic as the wildest dream.

Dr. Griggs is returning to the Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes, which he discovered. He intends to study plant formations and chemical changes that have taken place since his last visit in that region. He will again brave the dangers of a valley that is a veritable seething inferno of hot rocks, steam, and acid gases.

In the land of the bullet-proof bears, as he is wont to call it, he will pursue his scientific researches. As before he will trudge through miles of quicksand, fearing to rest, straining muscles lest he be engulfed; he will leap headlong into canyons; he will tight-rope, narrow logs bridging sixty-mile-an-hour streams.

Dangers Beset Paths
He will follow bear trails, plow through grass, eight feet tall, wade through drifts of volcanic ash up to his knees; he will gaze down the sheer walls of the world's largest volcano, into the blazing inferno of its liquid interior, when a misstep means death. He will brave winds that have in the past snatched him away from his camp and hurled him across valleys. He will avoid live steam that he cannot see, fight acid gases that etch the lenses of his camera, and penetrate dense fogs.

All this is in the interest of science.

Huge Volcanic Wastes Abound

A volcanic eruption years ago destroyed miles of fertile lands, covering them with sodden ash. And now the effects have mostly worn away. Dr. Griggs will study the recovery of the plants, and how the vegetation will again make its way into these sterile fields.

The land in which he enters is a topsy-turvy land. There are streams, dashing seaward a mile a minute; there are fierce gales that lash the valleys' interiors. Treacherous bogs impede travel. But more than that—his land is a land of marvels. There are rivers in it whose centers are forty feet higher than their banks. The fierce winds always blow from leeward. Bears have been reported fourteen feet long, and they are bears which he has failed to arouse to anger even by shooting them full of lead. He lights bonfires by dipping sticks into the natural hot springs, and pulling them out afire. He fries bacon by throwing it into the natural steam pits, and chasing it across country as it is blown into the air and fries on the way down.

Large Boulders Afloat

Boulders weighing hundreds of tons float downstream. Floods are caused by landslides. Mountain tops disappear and leave no traces. Other mountains make mysterious noises. Streams move around and go different places every week. Roving rock piles are blown about by the winds. Creeks carry off stones but fail to disturb loose sand. Other sands roving the countryside are blazing hot. He must sleep on blankets to keep from scorching. He must strain water

Lost and Found Department Lists Huge Accumulation; Auction Sale Will Be Soon

The lost and found section is gradually swamping Mr. Mert's office, Room 22, Building F. The situation is deplorable, not to say distressing. It seems as if every male in the University has contributed at least one piece of collegiate headgear to the cause. A very striking array of umbrellas is lined up against the closet wall amid omniferous rubbers and raincoats from Goodyear to Hood.

It wouldn't be a bad idea if the girls had their gloves attached to long tapes that run through the sleeves in the manner that tiny tots wear their mittens. There is a wire basket full of gloves—black kid and brown, suede and chamois, long and short.

Besides the two fellows who ostensibly froze all winter without their overcoats, there is a worthy co-ed who seems to think that this department is too "fun" to go for her rather dilapidated neck-piece. The gym department is well represented along with the Waterman and Kewsharp companies. Some careless individual lost a change purse containing two dollars, but an unusually honest one turned it in.

All unclaimed articles will be disposed of at a grand auction at the end of the semester. If you have anything in this collection, claim it now.

SEVEN CO-EDS GO GAMMA ETA ZETA

COLUMBIANS ARGUE ON SOVIET RUSSIAN POLICY

Lively Discussion Anticipated Following Arguments On Religious Policy

"Resolved, That this house supports the present religious policy of Soviet Russia" is the subject to be debated at the Columbian Debating Society meeting Friday night in Corcoran Hall. This subject was originally scheduled for Friday, March 14, but was postponed because of the varsity debate with the Harvard Chinese Debating Council.

It is expected that the debate will bring out all of the radical and conservative views entertained in the United States today about Soviet Russia. The Russian side will be presented by Paul Linebarger and David Rapoport of the society, both known as exponents of radical ideas. Opposed to them will be Dana Quarles and Carroll Doering, also members of the Columbian Debating Society, who will decry the religious policy of Russia as inhumanitarian and unnecessarily persecutory among other offenses. Speeches from the audience will follow the conclusion of the debate, and it is expected that an extremely interesting discussion will ensue.

POETRY CLUB MEETS TODAY

The Modern Poetry Club will hold its next meeting on March 19th, at 1 p. m., in the Sigma Kappa Sorority rooms. A program of Carl Sandburg's poems will be given and Ruth Remon will discuss Images and Symbols in the New Poetry.

HATCHET, GHOST, AND WIG MERGE INTO NEW PAPER

Joint Publication Will Be Known As The University Hatchet

BEMENT NEW EXECUTIVE OFFICER OF PUBLICATION

Reese E. Sewell Is Made Graduate Business Manager; Herbert E. Angel Managing Editor

By vote of the several boards of editors concerned, and with the approval of the University administration, The University Hatchet, The Colonial Wig, and The Ghost have merged to form one publication, which will be known as The University Hatchet. As corollaries to this action, the following steps have been taken:

1. Douglas Bement, professor of English, and former adviser to The Colonial Wig, has been named Acting Executive Officer of Publications.

2. Reese L. Sewell, a graduate of the University of Maryland, who was active in publications at that institution, has been appointed as Graduate Business Manager.

3. By vote of the editors of The University Hatchet, Herbert E. Angel was elected Managing Editor of the merged publications.

4. Elizabeth Buntin and George M. Roth, formerly chairmen of the editorial boards of The Ghost and The Colonial Wig, respectively, have become editors of the new Hatchet.

5. Former members of editorial boards of The Ghost and The Colonial Wig have been assigned posts as assistant editors on The Hatchet.

6. Harold L. Jenkins, former Acting Business Manager of The University Hatchet, has been continued in that capacity.

Special Issue Coming

Under the merger, the new Hatchet will contain literary and humorous material, which will probably appear in the form of tabloid supplements to the weekly newspaper as it now exists. The Cherry Tree, the annual, is not affected at the present time, it is pointed out.

As the first concrete evidence of the united publication, a special issue is being prepared for May 7. At that time, the regular issue of The Hatchet will be augmented with alumni news, a rotogravure section similar to that which appeared last year, and a literary supplement containing humorous features as a part of it.

To this end applications for positions on the staff of the joint publication are being received this week at a time and place announced elsewhere in this issue. A close check will be kept on the work of staff members and applicants, so that editors and assistant editors will be appointed for next year on May 7, and senior and junior reporters will be selected by June 11.

Angel Heads Paper

The Managing Editor of the newspaper is Herbert E. Angel, who for the past two years has been Chairman of the Board of Editors of the old Hatchet. Angel has also been appointed as a member of the University Committee on Publications.

Other editors on The Hatchet include Dorothy Albert, Betsy Booth, Elizabeth Buntin, Norman H. Conner, Lewis N. Demblitz, Charles Jaquette, and George M. Roth.

With the addition of editors from The Colonial Wig and The Ghost, and with three additional appointments by The Hatchet, the assistant editors are: Robert Considine, Meriam De Haas, Nanette Demblitz, Elizabeth Ford, Willard L. Hammer, Cecile Harrington, Fletcher Henderson, Maude Hudson, Ruth Markwood, Edith Norris, Verna Parsons, Harriette Rissler, Frank Scribner, Audrey Somervell, Marion Stewart, and Frank Weitzel.

Few Business Changes

On the business side of the paper, essentially the same organization will continue for the present, according to Mr. Sewell, the Graduate Business Manager.

Mr. Sewell received his B. S. degree from the University of Maryland in 1928, and has until now been employed by the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Company. At Maryland Telephone Company, he was business manager of The Reveille, the annual, and served on the business staff of The Diamondback, student weekly, for three years. He is a member of Nu Sigma Omicron social fraternity, Gamma Alpha Nu, honorary journalistic fraternity, and Omicron Delta Kappa, honorary activities fraternity.

REPORTERS

Applications for positions as reporters on the staff of The Hatchet will be received in The Hatchet Office, in the basement of Stockton Hall (Building Q), at noon and at five o'clock from Wednesday to Saturday of this week.

THE NEW HATCHET

A new publication appears on G. W.'s campus the week of May 7; a glorified Hatchet, which is a combination of the old newspaper, the Ghost, and the Wig. New Offices and a complete reorganization of the staffs accompany this step.

Douglas Bement of the English staff is acting executive officer of the publication. Reese L. Sewell, a graduate of Maryland University, takes the post of graduate business manager, a newly created position which is necessitated by the increase in size and scope of the undertaking. Below these are a managing editor and a business manager, a board of eight, and a large staff of assistants and reporters. This organization is on a more professional scale than that of former years, and should handle efficiently the added work of a semi-weekly paper, with literary and comic supplements.

The new offices on Twentieth Street offer a veritable paradise in comparison with the old dark, overcrowded quarters. A large room on the second floor, with adequate writing space, typewriters and filing space will be the property of the reporters. On the third floor are two rooms; one the sanctum of the executive officer, the graduate business manager, and the managing editor; and the other that of the Board of Editors.

The combination of the three branches, the journalistic, literary, and humorous, is an innovation which will be watched with interest, and which should offer advantages to each. The future of publications at G. W. is bright.

THE CHINESE DEBATE

Last Saturday evening representatives from Harvard's Debating Society were able to persuade a group of two hundred or more persons in Corcoran Hall that the Oriental philosophy of life was more conducive to happiness than the American views. Try as they might the G. W. representatives were unable to refute the claims and arguments advanced by these visitors in support of their outlook on life.

On the face of the facts it would seem that our American philosophy were not wholly sufficient to satisfy the eternal cravings of the human soul. Ours is a fast moving age with advantages which are undreamed of in the far removed Orient. With us we have goals to be attained, as has been said, our whole creation moves to one divine far-off event. And has it not been even more appropriately said that we know not where we go but merely that we are on our way?

The Chinese think differently on these matters. Their civilization is one antedating our own by several thousand years and it is not inconceivable that these age-old people have long since experienced the futility of this ever-lunging forward in a vain attempt to grasp an ever-forward leaping goal. Rather do they seem content to be happy with attained ends and to rejoice in the fruits of their accomplishment.

Thus the two philosophies of life were presented before the group for a decision on their merits. Each, of course, has its application to the present age. We believe that it is a high compliment to the student body of George Washington that even these few individuals could lay aside the pressing cares of an evening to hear the exponents of the East upon the eternal question of human happiness and how to attain it.

As becomes our high office we cannot concede that the arguments of the learned Orientals were of sufficient force to cause us to desert the errors of our way, if such they be; still we frankly admit that our faith in our views of things received a very healthful jolt which perhaps after all is one of the real purposes in the holding of college debates on our campus.

FOOTBALL TEAM WILL PLAY EIGHT CONTESTS IN 1930

Games Are Scheduled With Several of Country's Best Teams

UNIVERSITY OF IOWA AND TULSA ARE AMONG FOES

Navy Game Is Feature Clash of Year; To Be Played In Annapolis

The football team representing George Washington University will play eight and possibly nine games next year. Playing probably the heaviest and longest schedule ever taken on by the school, the 1930 football team will travel west on two different occasions to meet strong opponents in Tulsa and Iowa University. Thus George Washington is following the plan of other large eastern universities and is reaching out for inter-sectional honors. During the past season only eastern, or northeastern, teams were met.

The coming season will open on October 4, at New Brunswick, N. J., where Rutgers College will be met. The next game, although the opponent is undecided, will be played in Washington. Following that game the Colonials will journey to Iowa City to meet the strong Iowa University eleven, which was recently reinstated into the Big Ten. A return game is expected with Iowa the following year, and this game is expected to create much interest on the part of George Washington supporters.

C. U. To Be Played Earlier

On October 25 Dickinson College of Carlisle, Pa., will furnish the opposition. ## Demonstration Given By Gym Department

Five Hundred Witness Demonstration Marking Close of Winter Sports Season

Over five hundred persons witnessed the demonstration given by the Women's Physical Education Department on the night of March 13. The demonstration marking the close of the winter sports season, is the first event of its kind given at G. W.

It was given under the direction of Miss Ruth Atwell, Miss Helen Lawrence, and Miss Janet Jones, the staff members.

There were eleven events on the program ranging from a gymnastic drill and folk dancing, to a thrilling basketball game.

Another feature of the program was the stunt exhibition given by members of the freshman gym classes. A number of difficult feats were performed, and examples of tumbling were given.

The colorful costumes were a feature of the gracefully performed freizes done by a group of sophomores from the dancing classes.

A novelty relay race consisting of relays in running, hopping, basketball throwing, and others, was won by the Pi Beta Phi intramural group. The Phi Sigma Sigma's were second with the Colonialettes a close third.

The basketball game between the varsity and a picked all-class team proved to be the most thrilling feature on the program. The varsity triumphed easily with a score of 29-2.

BASEBALL NINES WILL FORM HERE SHORTLY

Coach Farrington Announces Equipment Is Available For Interested Athletic Groups

There will be intramural baseball competition at George Washington this year. All men desiring to take part are urged to report immediately to the gymnasium and be assigned to their respective groups. Although the athletic department is not promoting the sport, Coach Pixlee has expressed his desire that George Washington have some sort of competition in baseball. The students are showing keen interest in this major sport and Coach Pixlee and Max Farrington are willing to cooperate with those interested.

Teams representing the Law School, the School of Engineering, and other departments or classes are expected to be organized. Independent teams may be organized composed of any students attending George Washington.

The athletic department will furnish balls and necessary equipment for catchers and first basemen. Other material can be secured through the department at reduced prices.

A league will be formed and a regular schedule will be played on grounds and under officials secured by the athletic department. It will be necessary for each competing group to select a manager to confer with the athletic department. Men who act as managers of their respective teams will be eligible for selection as varsity and freshmen baseball managers next year.

TROUBADOUR MATERIAL FOR NEXT YEAR SOUGHT

CHEERLEADERS CALLED

All cheerleading applicants are to report to the Gymnasium Thursday, March 20, between 12 and 1 P. M.

G. W. SWIMMERS ARE BEATEN BY TEACHERS

Kyle and Von Lewinski Score Only First Places For Colonials In Plunge

Obtaining revenge for the overwhelming defeat suffered at the hands of George Washington University swimming team last year, Harrisonburg State Teachers College outstripped the Colonial girl swimmers at Harrisonburg, Saturday night, March 15, with a score of 41-18.

The opening event of the meet was the forty-yard free style in which Grace White of George Washington scored third place, nearly tying Catherine Wherritt of Harrisonburg for second. First place was taken by Evelyn Wilson of the same school.

Irene Garrison of the opposing team touched first in the forty-yard breast stroke with India Bell Corea, of G. W. placing second and Edith Brookhart of G. W. coming in third.

Diving was the fourth event scheduled on the program. The scoring was very close, with few points difference between the first and last places. The judges gave first place to Teachers College, second to Grace White of G. W. and third to Evelyn Wilson of Harrisonburg.

The forty-yard backstroke event was won by Claudia Kyle of George Washington with Sarah Betrow and Kengle Bird, of Harrisonburg second and third.

Inge von Lewinski of the Colonial team outplunged her competitors in the half-minute plunge event, while Harrisonburg scored second and third places.

The relay which completed the meet was the most exciting event of the evening and was won by Harrisonburg with a margin of only a few inches.

The meet was attended by quite a large gathering of both Harrisonburg and G. W. rooters, and the pool room was decorated in the colors of both schools.

WOMEN'S SPRING SPORTS TO BEGIN ON MARCH 24

Women's spring sports at George Washington will begin on March 24, the list of sports including tennis, baseball, track, and archery.

Tennis is the only sport in which the Varsity team will participate. There will be matches with William and Mary, Harrisonburg, and Hood, and the dates for these matches will be announced later.

Included in the track events will be the javelin throw, discus throw, shot put, high and broad jumps, sprints, baseball, and basketball distance throw, and a run, hop, skip, jump race.

SPRING PRACTICE WELL UNDER WAY

Practically Whole of Victorious Freshman Squad Has Turned Out

NEW SYSTEM INSTALLED

Coaches Pixlee, Sexton, and Farrington Are In Charge of Daily Workouts

Spring football practice for G. W. was scheduled to start on Tuesday, March 11, but due to the inclemency of the weather was postponed until Wednesday at 2:30. The squad at present is made up of about fifty men who have been issued uniforms and who at this time are going through some light practice on the Tidal Basin Field.

Nearly the entire squad of the victorious freshman team is out for these practices, and it is through these men and some of the last year's varsity men that G. W. is pinning her hopes for next year.

Fundamentals To Be Stressed

The team for 1930 season will be picked from those who report to practice this spring. Those desirous of trying out for the team for next year should, if possible, report to spring practice, as all the fundamentals of the sport will be taught and a system developed for the 1930 season.

The coaching staff will be made up of Pixlee, Sexton, and Farrington. Coaches Sexton and Farrington had a very successful season last year with the strong freshman team, and as they know these players very well the team should be well guided through the coming season.

G. W. CO-EDS DEFEAT DREXEL AND U. OF PA.

Team Totals 492; Spencer and Collins Make Only Perfect Scores

The George Washington University Women's Rifle team scored another victory in the triangular shoulder-to-shoulder match with Drexel Institute and University of Pennsylvania, which was held at the Drexel range in Philadelphia last Saturday, March 15. The G. W. team scored 492 points out of a possible 500, defeating their opponents by 12 and 19 points, respectively.

The only two perfect scores were run up by the victors, when Arline Spencer, manager, and Edna Collins, centered the bulls-eye ten times. Naomi Creme, turned in a score of 98, while both Verna Parsons and Captain Roberta Wright made scores of 97.

Betty Clark, who acts in the capacity of coach for the Colonial Co-eds, and who was formerly a member of the varsity team, deserves much of the credit for the victory, which was won over squads trained by competitors.

G. W. Scores 1380 Against Navy Riflers

Colonial Team Shoots Its Highest Score For the Present Year

In their most important match of the season, the local rifle team broke all their records for this year by shooting 1380. The match was a telegraphic meet with Navy, and as Navy beat us so badly in an unofficial shoulder-to-shoulder match at the beginning of the season it has been the red letter match of the N. R. A. schedule.

The Navy score has not yet been announced and so the winner of the meet can not yet be determined. Navy has been shooting higher scores than 1380 though in all their recent matches.

Barr was high man in the match with the score of 285, the highest individual score of the season. The next highest scores were close behind, Parsons with 280 and Jackson with 279.

	Pr.	Kn.	St.	Tot.
Barr	100	94	91	285
Parsons	97	96	87	280
Jackson	99	94	86	279

FROSH BASKETERS BEAT TRINITY METHODIST TEAM

In their first game in the Amateur Athletic Union tournament, now being conducted under the auspices of the Washington Post, the George Washington Freshman basketball team defeated the Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church team by a score of 49-26. The game was played in the Tech High Gymnasium.

The game was loosely played and the result was never in doubt. The Cubs' game was far below their usual standard, but they had little trouble in winning. Player Coach Jack Connor held down a guard position for the Frosh and directed his team from the floor. Burgess and Carlin were the scoring stars with 13 and 10 points, respectively.

PHI SIGS TAKE BOWLING CUP BY DOWNING T. U. O.

Win Two Out of Three Games To Capture Interfraternity Bowling Championship

Phi Sigma Kappa won the Interfraternity Bowling Championship by defeating Theta Upsilon Omega in the championship match by a two-to-one decision. The Phi Sigs won the first game by a margin of fourteen pins, but lost the second game in which Theta Upsilon Omega rolled 510, their high game of the evening. The Phi Sigs came back in the third game to roll 523, and win the game by a margin of fifty-three pins to capture the cup.

Phi Sigma Kappa was awarded the championship of their league, after Sigma Chi had been disqualified for using an ineligible man in some of their games.

In the first game of the match, with Quarles rolling 109, Phi Sigma Kappa gathered a total of 474 to win the game by a margin of 14 pins. Theta Upsilon Omega won the second game by rolling a total of 510 pins. Herzog was their high man with 418, and Pomeroy rolled 110. Quarles was high for Phi Sigma Kappa with 119. Phi Sigma Kappa won the third and deciding game by rolling a total of 523, the high game of the evening. Jaquette was the high man for the winners with 128, and Pomeroy for the losers with 116.

Phi Sigma rolled a total of 1,490 to out total Theta Upsilon Omega by 50 pins and win the championship.

DEBATE TEAM GOES TO ITHACA AND SYRACUSE

Women's Team Makes Tour North To Meet Cornell and Syracuse In No-Decision Debates

Last week the Women's Debating team had three debates on the subject, "Resolved: That Higher Education for the Masses should be Discouraged." The team took the affirmative in all three of the debates.

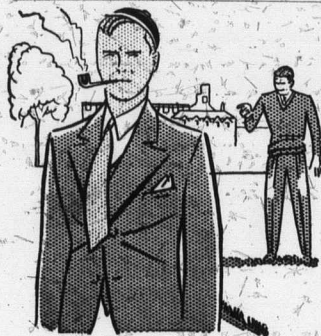

The first debate took place in Syracuse last Thursday. It was presided over by the Syracuse Dean of Women. In Ithaca Friday the team debated with the Cornell team in the evening. The debate was held in one of the lounging rooms of the university. Saturday afternoon the three debaters, Louise Feinstein (capt.), Virginia Frye, and Julia Bonwit, were entertained at lunch by a graduate student who is to be assistant professor of Public Speaking next year at G. W. under Professor Yeager.

Saturday night the debate between the G. W. negative team and the Pittsburgh Women's affirmative team was held in Corcoran Hall. Elizabeth Reeves is captain of the G. W. group. No decision was rendered in any of these debates.

DRAMA CLUB MEETS

The next meeting of the Drama Club will be held Wednesday, March 19, in Corcoran Hall 29. There will be a short business meeting, after which members of the association will present a program more elaborate than those prepared for preceding meetings. Various committees for play reading are to read entire plays with a view to choosing the three suitable for rehearsal with production in view. Combined with these there will be readings and other dramatic forms presented.

The Drama Club invites those who are interested in plays and readings to be present at this program.

YOU'VE noticed how expressive the pipe can be, what meaning it can put into the simplest gesture. The pipe even helps you say nothing at all—and that, O mortal, takes a man among men!

GLEE CLUB MAKES PATHE NEWS FILM

OTHER PROGRAMS GIVEN

Navy and American L. to Enter Next Year's Contests; Weitzel Works For Club

The George Washington University Glee Club, acclaimed national intercollegiate champions at a contest held in Carnegie Hall, New York City, on March 8, is beginning to reap the benefits to be derived from such an achievement. On Sunday afternoon the club put on an open air performance at the base of the Lincoln Memorial, appropriately using the Washington Monument as a background, for the benefit of Pathe News Service, which made a "talkie" of the program. This program will be exhibited on the screen of every Radio-Keith-Orpheum Theater in the country. The selections used were the three which the G. W. Club sang in the contest, namely "Lo, How a Rose E'er Blooming," "Hark Jolly Shepherds," and the "University Ode."

The club has participated in several programs since its return from New York, among them the one presented for the banquet of the George Washington University Medical Association. A concert-dance is scheduled for the Marjorie Webster School this coming Saturday.

Next Contest Planned

Work has already started on the 1931 sectional contest, which is to be held here in Washington. Invitations have been sent to the Glee Clubs of the U. S. Naval Academy, American University and several others to participate in this contest to select a club to represent the Middle Atlantic group in the final contest in New York. George Washington University is assured of being represented in the final, as they will be entered as the defending champions.

A large share of the success of the club is due to the work of its secretary, Winfield Weitzel. It was through his persuasion that the other two local Glee Clubs organized to stage a sectional contest. When the club won the sectional contest, it was largely due to his untiring efforts that the New York trip was made possible.

Following is a roster of the winning club as it appeared in Carnegie Hall: Frank Scrivener, manager; Jesse Stimson, student conductor; Henry Amos, Daniel Beattie, Charles Buckingham, Raymond Coe, Allan Crocker, Owen Cummings, Thomas Crigler, Samuel Detwiler, Irving Douglas, Robert Griest, Richard Hill, Carroll Hughes, George Jarvis, Richard Kilstein, William May, Aubrey Minor, Benjamin Newton, Norman Morgan, William Powell, John Perry, George Roth, Hardie Seay, Erith Smith, James Smith, Nevitt Smoot, Douglas Taylor, George Wells, and Winfield Weitzel, who was executive secretary of the Middle Atlantic Association.

PRAISES FOR GLEE CLUB

March 8, 1930.
My Dear Mr. Editor: May I through your columns as an interested alumnus venture to suggest to the student body and the alumni the importance of the triumph won by our Glee Club in the Intercollegiate Competition? It was a great moment in my life when I heard that tremendous Carnegie Hall audience give our club a great ovation. On Sunday I heard them sing to untold millions over a nation-wide radio hook-up.

Does the University realize what this club has accomplished? Entering the contest for the first time, the club has won a national championship, held four times by Dartmouth, three times by Harvard, twice by Yale, twice by Wesleyan, and once by Princeton. In a school which is not too heavily burdened with traditions, a great tradition has been established. The ability, zeal, and loyalty of the men, and the devotion and genius of Doctor and Mrs. Harmon have laid the bases for that tradition. Let the University hail the victors, and resolve through increased support of the club to maintain the great tradition.

STUDENTS PRESENT AT SUNDAY HALL MEETING

Many Attend Gathering Held to Express Sympathy For Russian Churchmen

Many George Washington University students attended the meeting to express sympathy for churchmen in Russia persecuted by the Red government, at the D. A. R. Constitution Hall, last Sunday of the same week in which occurred Communist demonstrations in several cities in the United States. Bishop Freeman of Washington presided.

Speaking before an audience of several thousand Protestants, Catholics, and Jews, Rev. Thomas A. Walsh, vice president of Georgetown University, asserted, "The Communist government has proclaimed that by 1933 there will be no religion in Russia."

"For no greater sin than is committed by Bishop Freeman and the other ministers on this platform every day—that of teaching the gospel to our young people," continued Father Walsh, "10,000 churchmen of all creeds have perished in Russia since the war, and 3,000 churches have been demolished by Red laws."

Father Walsh, who is considered an authority on Russian affairs, explained that an elaborate school system has been established by the Red Government, in connection with which the Minister of Public Education remarked several years ago that "the children are to be made not only nonreligious in attitude, but antireligious."

After the meeting, six high school boys were arrested outside Constitution Hall for distributing pamphlets advocating Communism. They were released on bail a few hours later.

ALPHA LAMBDA DELTA TO INSTALL ON G. W. CAMPUS

The installation of the George Washington chapter of Alpha Lambda Delta, women's freshman honorary scholastic fraternity, is to take place April 12, according to the decision reached at the combined luncheon and meeting of the organization held at the Tallyho Tavern last Thursday. Jeanette Bernstein and Nanette Dembitz were appointed by the president, Mildred Burnham, to arrange for the place of the installation and the banquet that will precede it. Members from nearby universities will be present to install the new chapter.

FOOTBALL TEAM WILL PLAY 8 GAMES IN 1930

eleven will be met. Upon their return east the N. Y. Aggies and Albright will be opposed on successive Saturdays.

Catholic University will not be met as usual on Thanksgiving Day, but will be played on Saturday, November 22. This will enable the Colonials to get in shape for the game with Navy the Saturday following Thanksgiving. Although the game will be played at Annapolis, George Washington supporters are expected to be present in full force.

Counting the Annapolis game as a home game, of the nine listed on the schedule five will be played at home and four on foreign soil. Therefore with much support from the students and alumni the games are expected to be very colorful and should demand much interest throughout football circles. The prospects for a greater George Washington football team are the best ever presented, and under the able supervision of Coach Pixlee the Colonial team should be one deserving favorable comment.

Freshmen to Face Strong Teams

In addition to the varsity the freshman schedule will furnish plenty of thrills. The cubs will meet freshmen from Catholic University, Georgetown, Western Maryland, St. John's, the Navy B squad, and probably the first year men of Princeton, Penn State, and Maryland.

Varsity schedule:

Oct. 4—Rutgers College, New Brunswick, N. J.

Oct. 18—Iowa University, Iowa City, Iowa.

Distinguished Assemblage of Professional Men Attend Affair at Mayflower

AUDIENCE NUMBERS MANY

Dr. G. W. Crile Expounds New Theory; Dr. D. L. Borden Presides; Glee Club Sings

One of the most brilliant assemblages of medical men ever gathered in Washington attended the annual reunion and banquet of The George Washington University Medical Alumni, held Saturday night at the Mayflower under the auspices of The George Washington University Medical Society. The large ballroom of the hotel, decorated with George Washington flags and banners, was crowded to capacity with more than 400 physicians, surgeons and dentists, among them many of Washington's outstanding members of the profession.

Dr. George W. Crile, of Cleveland, Ohio, world-famous for his treatment of thyroid and goiter, gave the principal address of the occasion, expounding a new theory of the cause and control of peptic ulcer, based upon extensive experiments and research conducted at the famous Cleveland Clinic.

Dr. Dag Borden Presides

The banquet was presided over by Dr. Daniel LeRay Borden, President of The George Washington University Medical Society. In his welcoming address Dr. Borden spoke of the work of the society, whose 25th anniversary was marked by the banquet, in advancing medical science.

Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, President of The George Washington University, spoke of the development of medical education in the University and expressed appreciation of the wholehearted support of the Medical Alumni in the furtherance of this work.

A feature of the banquet was a program of songs by the Men's Glee Club, winners of the Intercollegiate Glee Club Contest, under the direction of Dr. Robert Harmon, who had led the club for the past eight years, and whose appearance at the banquet was particularly appropriate since he is himself a graduate of The George Washington University Medical School. The club was enthusiastically received upon what was its first appearance in Washington since winning national honors. The program included the prize song sung in the national contest, led by Jesse Stimson, student leader. President Marvin congratulated the club and Dr. Harmon for its outstanding achievement.
